JOHNSON ASSAILS WOOD'S MANAGERS

THAT ORGANIZATION THINKS PRESIDENCY IS FOR SALE.

THE JOHNSON STATEMENT

The Time Has Not Yet Arrived When Offices are Sold to the Highest Bidder, Johnson Says.

Senator Hiram Johnson's headquarters in Chicago issued a statement yesterday in which it was charged that the forces of General Wood are trying to buy the presidency. The statement was given out at headquarters in the presence of Hiram Johnson, Jr., and Meyer Lissner. It is as follows:

"If the senate committee investigating campaign funds is able to pierce the smoke screen being thrown out by the Wood managers and arrive at the truth there will be developed a story of expenditures which will stagger the entire nation. No campaign in the history of this country has ever even distantly approached the saturnalia of extravagance which has characterized the 1920 race for the nomination.

"The campaign of Gov. Lowden, while by no means as extravagant as that of Gen. Wood, has admittedly cost $400,000, a princely fortune in itself.

"Presidency on Sale."

"The Wood forces have proceeded on the theory that the presidency of the United States is for sale and that a candidate's qualifications are measured solely by the wealth of his supporters and the size of the campaign treasure chest.

"Of course the able and astute managers have seen to it that they themselves did not actually dispense the funds. They will innocently proclaim that independent organizations scattered throughout the various states whose membership has since disintegrated and whose books were either destroyed or never kept, "volunteered" to take care of the state contest.

"The facts however exist and it is to be hoped that the committee will be able to obtain the expenditures of the Wood organization in states like South Dakota, Indiana, New Jersey, Illinois and Ohio to say nothing of the amounts thrown into the western states, such as Oregon and California.

Cites Oregon Expenditure.

"More money was spent by the Wood forces in the state of Oregon in an attempt to defeat Senator Johnson than has been expended by us throughout the entire campaign, and this was done notwithstanding the fact that Oregon has but ten delegates.

"The time has not yet arrived in this county when offices are sold to the highest bidder. The people throughout the primary states have shown that principles and fitness are still the main consideration. They have demonstrated that a candidate without a campaign sack and with no organization whose only reliance is a direct appeal to the plain people may still successfully aspire to the presidency."

Department Enlarges Program to Embrace Civilian Relief as Well as for Soldiers and Families.

Miss Betty Turner, secretary of the home service section will be in charge and the office will be open all day on Mondays and Saturdays and on Wednesday and Thursday afternoons of each week.

All matters relating to the adjustments of difficulties concerning allotments, liberty bonds, back pay, war risk insurance and such affairs which might need straightening out for former service men are to be taken care of, the new work of civilian relief in no way interfering with any aid to be given former service men.

Miss Turner has been in charge of this department since the Nodaway County Red Cross chapter was first organized in this city and the town office will be a great convenience to persons all over the county who have occasion to apply to the home service department.

HEAVY ENROLLMENT AT S. T. C. SUMMER TERM

Half of First Day Shows Registration of 270 Students—Largest of any Previous Term Expected.

The enrollment of students for the summer term of the State Teachers College at 2 o'clock this afternoon was 270. The registration opened this morning at the Real Estate bank and is being done as expeditiously as the bank force can handle the work. The enrollment will be fully one hundred more by the close of the day as students are arriving in the city on every train.

Many of the schools and colleges are not yet closed for the summer and will not be until after June 1. While the summer term opens today, a few of the instructors cannot begin their work until June 1, on account of their teaching in other schools, and after this date there will be a large increase in enrollment and there is all indications of a larger attendance this summer than any previous year.

NATIONS TO INTERCHANGE LIBRARIANS

MISS LANGAN RECEIVES NOTICE OF PROPOSED PLAN.

TO PROMOTE SERVICE

Idea First Broached in 1903—Important as Guide for Citizenship of the Nation.

Miss Grace Langan, city librarian, has received notice of the plans now under way by the American Library Association, for the exchange of library assistants between America and Great Britain. The plan was proposed years ago but nothing was done with it. Recently representatives of the American Library Association and the chief deputy librarian of the Manchester, England, public library revived the plan and have been taking it with librarians all over the United States. Other prominent British public libraries are considering the idea and have been assured of the co-operation of the American librarians. Full plans for this interchange will be worked out later and it is probable many librarians and assistants from this country will go abroad to enter the foreign libraries.

The exchange of librarians, comparable to the system of exchange of professors, would promote a mutual understanding of methods of encouraging adult self-education in the two countries. The revival at this time of a project first, proposed in 1903 is declared by the American Library Association to be an indication of the growing realization throughout the world of the importance of public library service as a guide for the citizenship of a nation. Growing interest in public library service has been observed in France, occasioned to some extent by the library service of the American Library Association for the American Expeditionary Forces in the war. Poland and Czecho-Slovakia have established public library systems, having sought the expert guidance of the American Library Association through its European headquarters in Paris.

To promote library extension in America, the American Library Association is raising a "Books for Everybody" fund of $2,000,000. In seventeen states less than one-fifth of population has access to free public libraries, the Bureau of Education declares, and the average for the nation is less than fifty per cent.

Miss Marie Cloud left this afternoon for Chicago for an extended visit with her mother, Mrs. Emma Cloud.

COUNTY WEALTH AT 25 MILLION

STATE TAX COMMISSION RECOMMENDED AMOUNT FOR COUNTY.

UP TO STATE BOARD NOW

Valuation as Returned by Assessors Was $71,081,692—Increase of Over $2,000,000 Over Last Year.

The State Tax Commission has set the assessment of Nodaway county at $25,564,923. This amount was recommended to the state board of equalization. This is $45,516,769 less than the valuation returned to the board by the assessors of the county, who placed Nodaway's wealth at $71,081,692.

Last year the valuation of the county was assessed by the assessors at $62,872,462. This amount was reduced to $23,391,595 by the state board of equalization. If the amount recommended by the state tax commission is left at $25,564,923 by the state board of equalization, it will be an increase of $2,173,328 over last year.

The total valuation of Missouri property, real and personal, as recommended to the State Board of Equalization by the State Tax Commmission is $2,183,273,472. This is $425,270,260 less than the valuation returned to the board by county assessors who placed Missouri's wealth at $2,908,544,432. The commission places real estate at $1,901,249,050 and personal property at $582,024,422.

In submitting a report of the assessment of real and personal property in the state for the taxes of 1912, to the State Board of Equalization the State Tax Commission declares there are found many different views by county and township assessors throughout the state.

This requires, the commission states, in some cases, a decided lowering of assessment and in others a similar raising to accomplish the desired result.

The commission says in its report that the school situation has been taken care of by a large majority of the counties on their own initiative and in all instances it has endeavored, as far as consistent with the idea of equalization, to provide for the wants as they have come to them.

Last year's per capita tax in Missouri, the Commission says, with an expenditure of $9,121,233.41, was $2.67 much lower than many other states similar in population and standing.

The commission's total for this year is an increase of $212,067,478 over the totals for the taxes of last as fixed by the State Board of Equalization.

Of this increase the City of St. Louis and Jackson County bear a considerable proportion.

The commission "hikes" the assessor's return from the City of St. Louis $12,557,041. The assessor returned a total of real and personal for St. Louis of $730,129,937 and the total fixed by the commission on these classes of property is $752,786,977.

Jackson County draws a big increase in the commission report. The assessor's return from that county was $294,968,031 and the total fixed by the commission is $351,372,435.

Rev. and Mrs. E. F. Estes and family of Albany, who have been guests of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Estes of this city, left for their home yesterday. Mr. Estes' father, A. T. Estes, of Maysville, Mo., who has been spending the week also at the Estes home, will return to his home Friday.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NODAWAY COUNTY

For Representative in Congress.

I hereby announce myself a Democratic candidate for Representative in Congress, Fourth Congressional District, Missouri subject to primary election first Tuesday in August, 1920

ROBERT I. YOUNG.
A15tf.

For Congress.

I am a candidate for the nomination for Representative in Congress of the Fourth District, subject to the Democratic Primary Election, Tuesday, August 3, and solicit the vote and support of all Democrats for the nomination to this important office.

W. K. JAMES.
Avenue City, Andrew County.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The Republican majority in Congress is bent on quitting its job in June, either by adjournment or a lengthy recess regardless of what may or may not have been done or what important matters still press for attention. Political fences must be mended, and as the majority leaders know they are going to have a lot of explanations to make to the folks back home in an effort to excuse sins of omission as well as commission since they came into power last May, they are going out to give attention to those fences, no matter what is left undone in Washington

Some of the Republicans who do not belong in the inner circle have a suspicion that "Boss" Penrose is using his colleague, Senator Knox, as a "stalking horse," and that his real "favorite" won't be entered in the Chicago derby until the bell taps.

Will Hays' "We care more for the stomachs of the people of America than for the heart of the world" slogan, is met by the Democrats with the retort, "We care both for the stomachs and hearts of mankind."

HOW EUROPE CAN ESCAPE COLLAPSE

We Must Aid by Extending Credits, Says Davison.

GRAVE MENACE TO U. S. A.

European Ruin Would Involve America—Starvation and Disease Rampant.

Des Moines, Iowa.—Speaking before the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, Henry P. Davison, chairman of the Board of Governors of the League of Red Cross societies, said: "As chairman of the convention of Red Cross societies, composed of representatives of twenty-seven nations that met recently in Geneva, I am custodian of authoritative reports recording appalling conditions among millions of people living in Eastern Europe.

"One of the most terrible tragedies in the history of the human race is being enacted within the broad belt of territory lying between the Baltic and the Black and Adriatic seas.

"This area includes the new Baltic states—Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, the Ukraine, Austria, Hungary, Roumania, Montenegro, Albania and Serbia.

"The reports which come to us make it clear that in these war ravaged lands civilization has broken down. Disease, bereavement and suffering are present in practically every household, while food and clothing are insufficient to make life tolerable. Men, women and children are dying by thousands, and over vast once-civilized areas there are to be found neither medical appliances nor medical skill sufficient to cope with the devastating plagues. Wholesale starvation is threatened in Poland this summer unless she can procure food supplies in large quantities. There are now approximately 250,000 cases of typhus in Poland and in the area occupied by Polish troops.

Worst Typhus Epidemic in History.

"This is already one of the worst typhus epidemics in the world's history. In Galicia whole towns are crippled and business suspended. In some districts there is but one doctor to each 150,000 people.

"In the Ukraine, we were told, typhus and influenza have affected most of the population. A report from Vienna, dated February 12th, said: 'There are rations for three weeks, death stalks through the streets of Vienna and takes unhindered toll.'

"Budapest, according to our information, is one vast city of misery and suffering. The number of deaths is double that of births. Of the 160,000 children in the schools, 100,000 are dependent on public charity. There are 150,000 workers idle.

"Typhus and small pox have invaded the four countries composing Czecho-Slovakia and there is lack of medicines, soap and physicians.

"In Serbia typuhs has broken out again and there are but two hundred physicians to minister to the needs of that entire country.

"In Montenegro, where food is running short, there are but five physicians for a population of 450,000. Returning to the United States a few weeks ago with all these horrors ringing in my ears, I found myself once more in a land whose granaries were overflowing, where health and plenty abounded and where life and activity and eager enterprise were in full flood.

"I asked myself: 'What if this plague and famine were here in the great territory between the Atlantic seaboard and the Mississippi Valley, which roughly parallels the extent of these ravaged countries and that 65,000,000 of our own people condemned to idleness by lack of raw material and whose fields had been devastated by invasion and rapine were racked by starvation and pestilence and if we had lifted up our voices and invoked the attention of our brothers in happier Europe to our own deep miseries and our cries had fallen on deaf ears, would we not in our despair exclaim against their heartlessness.'

Only Three Ways to Help Europe.

"There are only three ways by which these stricken lands can secure supplies from the outside world. One is by payment, one by credit, and the third is by exchange of commodities. If these peoples tried to buy materials and supplies in America at the present market value of their currencies, Austria would have to pay forty times the original cost, Germany thirteen times, Greece just double, Czecho-Slovakia fourteen times and Poland fifty times. These figures are official and are a true index of the economic plight of these countries.

"It is clear, therefore, that they cannot give us gold for the things they must have, nor have they either products or securities to offer in return for credit. If only they could obtain raw material which these idle millions of theirs could convert into manufactured products they would have something to tender the world in return for its raw material, food and medicine. But if they have neither money nor credit how are they to take this first great step towards redemption?

"One half the world may not eat while the other half starves. How long do you believe the plague of typhus that is taking a hideous death toll in Esthonia and Poland and the Ukraine and eating along the fringes of Germany and Czecho-Slovakia will confine itself to these remote lands?

"This is one menace at our threshold. The other, more threatening, more terrible, is the menace of the world's ill will. We can afford to die, but to be despised forever as a greedy and pharisaical nation is a fate that we must not incur.

"The French government has many serious problems to solve, but the French peasant is working and the French artisan, while still sadly in need of raw materials, has not lost his habit of industry and thrift. The most encouraging fact about France today is that her people are alive to the seriousness of France's problem, and they are going forward bravely to solve that problem.

"Italy, despite her great shortage of raw material, is looking forward and not backward. Italy can be relied upon to do her part.

"England is meeting the problems of reconstruction just as those who knew her past should have expected her to meet them.

Plan to Aid Central Europe.

"It is not for me, perhaps, to give in detail a formula for solution of the world's ills, but as I have been asked many times, 'What would you do?' I am glad to give my own answer, accordingly I would ask:

"1. That congress immediately pass a bill appropriating a sum not to exceed $500,000,000 for the use of central and eastern Europe.

"2. That congress call upon the President to appoint a non-political commission of three Americans, distinguished for their character and executive ability and commanding the respect of the American people. Such a commission should include men of the type of General Pershing, Mr. Hoover or Ex-Secretary Lane. I would invest that commission with complete power.

"3. I would have the commission instructed to proceed at once, accompanied by proper personnel, to survey conditions in Central and Eastern Europe and then act for the restoration of those countries under such conditions and upon such terms as the commission itself may decide to be practicable and effective. Among the conditions should be provided that there should be no local interference with the free and untrammeled exercise by the commission of its own prerogative of allocating materials. Governmental politics should be eliminated; unreasonable and prejudicial barriers between the various countries should be removed, and such substantial guarantees as may be available should be exacted in order that the conditions imposed should be fulfilled.

"4. As to financial terms, I should make them liberal. I would charge no interest for the first three years; for the next three years, six per cent, with provision that such interest might be funded if the economic conditions of the country were not approaching normal, or if its exchange conditions were so adverse as to make payment unduly burdensome. I should make the maturity of the obligation 15 years from its date, and I should have no doubt as to its final payment.

"5. Immediately the plan was adopted I would have our government invite other governments in a position to assist, to participate in the undertaking.

"6. To set forth completely my opinion, I should add that in the final instructions the American people, through their government, should say to the commission: 'We want you to go and do this job in such a manner, as after study, you think it should be done. This is no ordinary undertaking. The American people trust you to see that it is done right.' I would also say to the commission: 'Use so much of this money as is needed.' personally, I am confident that with the assistance and co-operation which would come from other parts of the world the sum of $500,000,000 from the United States would be more than enough to start these countries on their way to self support and restoration of normal conditions. The whole plan of course, involves many practical considerations, the most serious of which is that of obtaining the money, whether by issuing additional liberty Bonds, an increase in the floating debt or by taxation. But I think we could properly say to the treasury department: 'We know how serious your financial problems are; we know the difficulties which are immediately confronting you; we know the importance of deflation, and we know that the government must economize and that individuals must economize, but we also know that the American government advanced $10,360,000,000 to its Allies to attain victory and peace. Certainly it is worth making the additional advance in order to realize the peace for which we have already struggled, for nothing is more certain than that until normal conditions are restored in Europe there can be no peace.'

"Above all things, I would say, that whatever action is taken should be taken immediately. The crisis is so acute that the situation does not admit of delay, except with the possibility of consequences one hardly dares contemplate.

"The situation that I have spread out here is far beyond the scope of individual charity. Only by the action of governments, our own and the others whose resources enable them to cooperate, can aid be given in sufficient volume. I am also confident that our action would be followed by the governments of Great Britain, of Holland, of the Scandinavian countries, of Spain and Japan, and that France and Belgium and Italy, notwithstanding all of their losses, would help to the best of their ability."

A WILD ROSE.

By ALVAH J. GARTH.

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union.)

"A lady to see you, sir," spoke Susan Dodge, the old housekeeper; "two of them in fact—mother and daughter, I think."

Professor Albion Dacre lifted his eyes from his book with surprise, almost concern in his timid eye.

"If it is a subscription or something of that sort, you might attend to it, Susan," suggested her employer.

"I don't think it is anything of that kind, sir," explained Susan. "The elder lady said something about wishing to talk to you about the young lady."

"Very well; show them in," directed the professor, although he rather resented any intrusion upon his dearly loved solitude.

"I am Mrs. Eunice Ward," spoke a trained, even voice, and a matronly appearing lady with a refined cast of feature introduced herself. "This is my niece, Miss Gloria Tresham."

Professor Dacre courteously acknowledged the greeting of the elder lady. As he fixed his eyes upon her companion, it seemed as though the latter had brought into the staid, well governed house the very essence of youth, beauty, a breath of the forest or the sea, free, unrestrained, an indefinable spiritual something that caused the professor to feel as if this lovely creature was quite of another world.

Mrs. Ward was brief, concise and practical. "We have just moved into the house diagonally back of yours," she said.

"Ah! then we are neighbors?" observed the Professor.

"My niece, Gloria," proceeded Mrs. Ward, "has been brought up for eighteen years in the remote wilderness. When her mother died my brother went into seclusion, taking his only child to share it. Gloria has been brought up among nature's solitudes. She has had music, reading, the devoted love of her father in her hermit-like seclusion, comfort, even luxuries, but no outside companionship. When my brother died I hastened to assume her charge. Gloria is a loving, innocent child, who knows nothing of the great world. She can read, she is a wonderful pianist and singer, but she has not been taught to write a line. She knows nothing of the science of study. Professor Dacre, would you consent to take Gloria as a special home pupil, with the idea of familiarizing her with the system and methods of acquiring learning? And later on she might enter upon a course in some seminary."

It was an extraordinary concession to ask of a man as occupied and as well paid as Professor Dacre. The sweet eyes of Gloria Tresham fixed upon him, he was influenced to say:

"Madam, I have two hours daily in the afternoon unoccupied and usually devoted to rest, or reading in my library, or the garden. It will be a duty and a pleasure to have your niece for a casual pupil, but please do not speak of compensation," and a sentiment of pity for the orphan girl and a natural desire to be helpful to others so clearly spoke in the grave, earnest eyes, that Gloria's own bestowed a glowing glance upon him of gratitude and confidence.

Within a month Albion Dacre was lifted into a new phase of existence. To him Gloria was an untrained wild rose, sweet and beautiful, who shamed his practical worldly-wise nature in contrast with freshness, purity and innocence of a soul that had known and loved nature with the ardor of a child. Many a time the professor nurtured as a dream embracing all that was worth while in life, an ardent longing to seek a new existence amid the glories of nature in its primeval wildness, away from the drudgery and inharmoniousness of his present sphere, communing with the flowers, the birds, the stars, and learning from the lips of his fair young pupil lessons of the real loveliness and peace of a happy existence, "forgetting the world and by the world forgot!"

"Oh, think of it!" exclaimed Gloria rapturously one day. "I can write a whole line. See," and the rugged heart of her tutor beat tumultuously as she placed before him a sheet bearing the words, "I love Aunty Eunice and dear Professor Dacre more than anybody else in the whole world."

Then after that there seemed to creep into her nature a certain shyness that puzzled Albion Dacre. Even her aunt observed the change. Contact with the world was teaching the artless girl that she should repress the naive free impulses that her life in the wilderness had encouraged.

One afternoon the professor came to the tree-shaded table where Gloria took her lessons to find her sunny head pillowed on one arm and her lovely eyes closed in slumber. She had been writing in a little memorandum book and he could not help but scan the open page before him.

It held the secret thoughts of a girl in love—herself. It artlessly analyzed the deep devotion that had grown up in her heart for the man she adored—himself.

Suddenly Gloria aroused. She discerned that he had scanned her treasured confession. A deep blush overspread the beautiful face. She hastened to hide it against his arm, where she murmured softly:

"It's true, every word of it!" and Albion Dacre knew that the perfect joy of life was his.

ANNUL INDICTMENT AGAINST COAL OPERATORS AND MINERS

Ground That Lever Act Permits Farmers and Agriculturalists to Hoard But Not Coal Operators.

Indianapolis, May 26. — Declaring certain sections of the Lever Act clash with legislation in that they permit farmers and agriculturalists to hoard food and charge excessive prices while denying the same privilege as regards to the coal miners, operators, Judge Anderson today sustained a motion to quash the indictments recently returned against 125 coal operators and miners, as regard to thirteen of the eighteen counts and overruled the motion in regard to the other five. Judge Anderson in delivering opinion declared amendment to section four of the Lever act was void and the original section four is insufficient, and also declared section twenty-six of the act also void.

A WOMAN OF METHOD.

By CECILLE LANGDON.

(Copyright, 1920, Western Newspaper Union.)

The mother of John Bryce was what is commonly designated as a "tartar." No one who took the pains to become acquainted with her real qualities of sense, justice and strict adherence to her principles considered her either capricious or prejudiced, only her stern, iron ways seemed tyrannical at times.

Her husband had left her poor with an only son to care for. He became the one object of his mother's solicitude, not to coddle or indulge, but to bring up in the way he should go. There was no lack of the strap and unwavering discipline. John respected his mother because she was consistent. As he came to the estate of manhood he forged ahead very creditably in a business way. He courted and wedded Lillian Duane, who lived in a neighboring town, Lyndon, and they settled down there in their own home.

"John asked me to break up and live with them," old Mrs. Bryce remarked to a neighbor, "and that meek, mild, but thoroughly good little wife of his joined in the idea, but I would never think of intruding, for it would not turn out harmoniously. The only thing that worries me is that John needs some one to guide and restrain him. I do hope Lillian will see and curb his inclination to act on impulse."

The newly wedded pair seemed to get along creditably from all that John's mother learned, and if she missed her son and was lonesome, she concealed her sentiments. One day, however, a neighbor who had been on a visit to friends at Lyndon, stirred old Mrs. Bryce up and started her on the war path, bringing back some information that caused the mother to set her forceful wits at work.

"Lillian fairly idolizes John," was the way the neighbor put it, "but hasn't the gumption to govern him. She is simply so devoted to him, that she never resents or complains."

"Resents what?" sharply challenged the blunt old lady.

"John has sort of hailed his release from your strict discipline as a relief and is celebrating his liberty full blast."

"What! you don't mean that he has got into wild ways and all that?"

"Bless you, no! It isn't in John to act otherwise than the man your careful training has made of him. But he neglects Lillian."

John Bryce had never been out in the world much. His business was prosperous, he liked companionship and through his genial and liberal ways had made many friends, principally members of a club. There he became a great favorite and most of his evenings were spent away from home, and while Lillian pined in secret, she really encouraged him because of the enjoyment he so selfishly acquired.

Like a Roman mother of the olden times, the elder Mrs. Bryce made arrangements to remain away from home for a week and arrived bag and baggage at the son's home at Lyndon one morning. She was greeted with sincere pleasure by the lonely, neglected daughter-in-law who, within the hour, welcomed a visit that promised to restore to her the happiness she so craved.

John Bryce came home that evening to find his mother in charge. She got him his supper and told him that Lillian had been called away to visit a friend and would be home later.

John had gone to his own little den adjoining the parlor, when his mother intruded upon his privacy. There was a resoluteness of the old time in her wrinkled face.

"John," she said, "do you remember when you were a boy how I used to tie you to a chair when I wished to keep you in the house?"

"Yes, mother," assented John with a reminiscent smile.

"Well, I shall do just that right now unless you consent to remain home all of this evening right in this room and learn what a gifted and lovely wife you have. Lillian does not know you are here. I will leave the door slightly ajar. I want you to know what a treasure you have got."

Some neighbors arrived one hour later. It was Lillian looking her best who received these. John Bryce opened his peering eyes wide as he noted her brilliancy in conversation, her rare grace and beauty, never before realized by his heedless gaze. She played on the piano, she sang—hidden accomplishments never before suspected by him.

And when Lillian had gone to the door with her guests old Mrs. Bryce entered the den.

"Have you learned something new about your wife, John?" she interrogated.

"I have, for a fact," acknowledged John. "Guess I've been sort of blind, eh? Say, mother, what's it all about, anyway?"

"To try and check the cruel neglect of a heedless husband. For her sake John, for that of the little one on its way to you——"

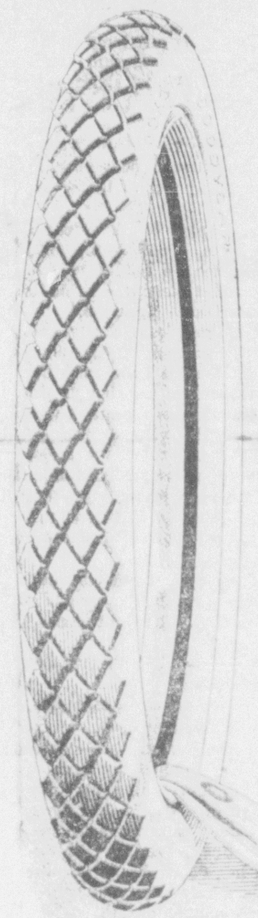
"What's that?" exclaimed John.

"Hasn't she told you? No? Poor soul! Don't you think she deserves a little more of your company, John?"

"All of it!" cried John, going to his desk and taking a pen.

He wrote a few lines. "I accept the lesson you are teaching me," he said humbly. "My resignation from the club. It's home for me and wife and baby after this," and he kept his word.

Big Value in Tires for The Smaller Cars



Back of the manufacture of Goodyear Tires for the smaller cars is the same purpose to supply high value in the product that is behind the manufacture of the Goodyear Tires that equip the most expensive automobiles built.

This purpose is expressed by the enormous resources, extraordinary skill and scrupulous care applied to the manufacture of Goodyear Tires in the largest tire factory in the world devoted solely to the 30x3-, 30x3½-, and 31x4-inch sizes.

The effect of this endeavor is noted in the fact that last year more cars using these sizes were factory-equipped with Goodyear Tires than with any other kind.

It is also noted in the fact that it you own a Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell, or other car requiring one of the sizes mentioned, you can secure Goodyear Tires and Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes at the nearest Goodyear Service Station.

30x3½ Goodyear Double-Cure Fabric, All-Weather Tread $23.50

30x3½ Goodyear Single-Cure Fabric, Anti-Skid Tread $21.50

Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes are thick, strong tubes that reinforce casings properly. Why risk a good casing with a cheap tube? Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes cost little more than tubes of less merit. 30x3½ size in waterproof bag $4.50

MADE HIS ESCAPE QUICKLY

Her First Husband's Time of Tribulation So Short as to Be Hardly Worth Mentioning.

The marriage registrar called "Come in!" and they came in. They consisted of 95 per cent woman to 5 per cent man, and the registrar's heart was smitten with pity.

"We want to get married, if you please!" said the small man behind the large button-hole.

The registrar gave a side glance at the portly dimensions of the would-be bride.

"Have you ever been married before?" he asked the very small man.

"No, sir," replied the little fellow, in a hopeful voice."

"And you, madam," inquired the registrar, "is this also your first venture?"

"Well, not exactly," answered the dame. "You see, my first husband jumped off the roof after we'd been married only two days, so he really ain't worth mentionin'."—London Tit-Bits.

More Odd Names.

The roll call of odd names that was published in a recent number of the Companion has prompted a subscriber to send us a few additional oddities that have happened to come to his notice.

John Spittler, he says, was a tobacconist; A. W. Soper was a barber, and P. Kornman of course was a chiropodist. On the other hand, the Clay Real Estate company did not limit its activities to one variety of soil, but dealt impartially in all, while Professor Fidler, although a music teacher, made the voice and not the violin his specialty. Mrs. Toothacher, whom fate appeared to have marked for a profession of dentistry, completely missed her vocation by becoming a dressmaker; nor was Mr. Drinkwater a teetotaler.—Youth's Companion.

THINGS THAT COUNT.

Not what we have but what we use;
Not what we see but what we choose—
These are the things that mar or bless
The sum of human happiness.

The things near by, not things afar;
Not what we seem but what we are—
These are the things that make or break,
That give the heart its joy or ache.

Not what seems fair but what is true;
Not what we dream but what we do—
These are the things that shine like gems,
Like stars in fortune's diadems.

Not as we take but as we give;
Not as we take but as we live—
These are the things that make for peace.
Both now and after time shall cease.

TOTAL DONATION TO PALMER CAMPAIGN FUND $59,610

Largest Contributor Is Joseph Guffey, Pittsburg Oil Man—Gift Said to be $10,000.

Washington, May 26.—Former Congressman Carlin of Alexandria, Va., manager of the Palmer's presidential boom, is counsel for a wealthy steel magnate, who is charged with income tax dodging, the case now pending being in Attorney General Palmer's office, according to Carlin's testimony today before the senate subcommittee investigating campaign expenditures.

The largest contribution to Palmer's campaign fund is Joseph Guffey, Pittsburg oil man, who secured valuable concessions in Mexico from Carranza. Carlin said Guffey had given $10,000 to the Palmer's fund. The total contributions to the fund amounted to $59,610.

Washington, May 26.—Colonel Proctor of Cincinnatti told that the committee had carried the burden of the Wood campaign for republican presidential nomination and had advanced $500,000 for campaign purposes which had not been covered by contributions. The Wood campaign was carried out in forty-seven states at an average expenditure of $8,000 per state, Proctor said, and in addition, there was an additional $19,000 for publicity for each state. The second large contributor to the Wood campaign was Colonel Monell, a friend of Wood, who gave $20,000, Proctor said.

FIND OUT JUST WHAT CAUSES YOUR RHEUMATISM

Then You Will Be Able to Treat It Intelligently.

The medical profession has not yet fully determined all of the causes of Rheumatism, though they are pretty well agreed on two points.

The first is, that the disease is more than a mere local trouble, that the pangs of pain come from a source that is far below the surface, and therefore it is not reasonable to expect any rational relief from a treatment that is locally applied and reaches only the surface.

When you realize the logic of this conclusion, you will see that you are really wasting your time and money if you are expecting any permanent relief from the use of liniments, lotions, and other locally applied treatment, which can only reach the surface, and have no effect whatever upon the origin of your trouble.

Any disease should be treated at its source, and especially one that causes as much suffering as Rheumatism. The only treatment worth while is one that will show progress toward getting at the source of the disease, and freeing the victim from its shackles.

The other point that the medical profession has agreed upon, is that some forms of Rheumatism are caused by a tiny disease germ in the blood, which multiplies by the million, and until these germs are routed from the blood, you can see how futile local treatment will be. In fact, you can use liniments by the gallon and never hope to reach the cause of your trouble.

So many people have found real permanent relief from their Rheumatism by the use of S. S. S. that its use is justified in practically every case. Certainly if your Rheumatism is due to a germ in the blood, as so many thousands of cases are, you should lose no time in beginning the use of S. S. S., because you can rely upon this fine old blood remedy to do you more good than any other treatment.

S. S. S. is beneficial in Rheumatism because it is such a thorough blood medicine. It cleanses the blood of all impurities, and eradicates the germs which cause Rheumatism. The wonderful results it has accomplished in other cases is proof of its great merit. S. S. S. has been on the market for more than fifty years and is sold by all druggists.

You are invited to write our medical department for full information and advice about the treatment of your own case, for which no charge is made. Address Chief Medical Adviser, 11 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Georgia.

The couple will be unattended and the bride will wear a traveling suit of navy blue tricotine trimmed in henna shade material with hat and gloves of the same color. Only the immediate members of the bride's family and a few intimate friends will witness the ceremony. The bride and groom will leave tonight for Philadelphia, but will stop at St. Louis, Washington, D. C., Baltimore and various points of interest while enroute. Until July 1, they will be guests of Mr. Hutchinson's mother, Mrs. S. O. Hutchinson, who lives at West Chester, a suburb of Philadelphia. After that time they will be at home in Philadelphia. Miss Wilderman is a graduate of the Maryville High School, former student of the State Teachers College and is one of Maryville's most charming young women. Trained Nurses Popular.

That trained nurses are being employed in increasing numbers shows that employers generally are recognizing their services. Previous to 1919, only 66 industrial firms employed trained nurses. Today more than 871 industries have nursing services. The industrial nurse has proved to be a good investment. She is a teacher of hygiene, and health education means prevention of accidents, which in years gone by have cost industry many thousands of dollars.

Once Thought to Be Worthless.

The shark is found to furnish about 11.9 per cent of hide, 31.3 of edible food, and 44.7 of fertilizer material, and a ten pound liver yielded three quarts of oil. The oil, fairly free from fishy odor, is well adapted for tanning and paints. The dried fertilizer material equals about 20 per cent of the total weight of the shark, and contains 18.3 per cent of nitrogen. The stomach may be utilized for leather.

Miss O'Neal Here.

Miss Jennie O'Neal of Topeka, Kan., arrived in Maryville Monday for a week's visit at the home of her cousin, Miss Hester DeNeen. Miss O'Neal is a former resident of Maryville and is at present employed with the Capper Publication Co., at Topeka.

A meek little man was about to take an examination for life insurance. "You don't dissipate do you?" asked the physician, as he made ready for tests. "Not a fast liver, or anything like that sort?" The little man hesitated a moment, looked a bit frightened, then replied in a small piping voice: "I sometimes chew a little gum."—Irish World.

See What God Hath Wrought.

At a time when machinery was taking the most laborious of women's work from the house, this God-given work came to her that her time might be invested in those things that developed womanhood, motherhood, spirituality and citizenship. In our readings and studies, the responsibilities of motherhood were pressed upon us. The sharing another's woes made us an unselfish sisterhood. The almost hopelessness of our first strenuous years, when there seemed to be no earthly help, caused us to fly more readily and earnestly to the Great Captian of our salvation and the religious life was deepened and broadened in thousands of hearts.

The Conventions, were some of the grandest speakers of the day, many of them developed by the great work to which they had been called, enthused our hearts and informed our minds upon the great themes of social and political betterment, as well as on the one great battle cry, a salooneless nation. One young lady, a national lecturer now, remarked that it had been a liberal education to be engaged in this work, and it was true. Suffrage early began to beckon to us as the way out of our wilderness, and now that its privileges are soon to be ours, no one is more ready or prepared to use the ballot judiciously than the woman who has trained for years with the W. C. T. U. Is there a better school in which to enroll to learn the responsibilities and benefits of the ballot? Not many of us ever having spoken in public or taken part in executive meetings, we early applied ourselves to practicing parliamentary usage and there are no conventions of either sex that run more smoothly and do business in a more prompt and executive manner than our District, State and National W. C. T. U. Conventions, while most of our women can address the Chair, put motions and otherwise carry on an orderly session in a creditable manner. We were not at all surprised at the determination and zeal shown in the overthrow of the corrupt regime in Columbus, Ohio, nor that the W. C. T. U. had a part in it. Hundreds of elections when wet and dry were the issues, have seem just such heroic efforts and our women are fearless when right and wrong, or the interests of the home are in the balance.

PURPLE DYE FROM SHELLFISH

Possibility That New Industry May Be Developed, Since the Supply Is Inexhaustible.

On the Pacific coast of Costa Rica, especially in the region about Cocos bay, there abounds a kind of shellfish called the "nacascol," from which a fine purple color is obtained. So far no way has been found for preserving this dye, and the industry has remained in the hands of the few old people who take the trouble to dye a few ounces of thread every summer. The process is very simple. On picking up the shell from the beach or detaching it from a boulder, the gatherer blows her breath into it, whereupon a few drops of a greenish liquor ooze out. This liquor is collected in a clamshell and after a sufficient quantity has been collected the thread is passed through it, soon after assuming, on exposure to the sunlight, a beautiful purple color, which is absolutely fast after it has turned purple. It is thought possible that the dye turns fast only on exposure to the air and that the liquor could be preserved by keeping the air from it. There is little doubt that this industry of dyeing thread could be extended to greater proportions if an extensive demand at good prices could be found for the dyestuff.

The Laundry Queen Electric.

The washer stops the instant cover is raised, without disconnecting any lever or making any adjustments.

The Queen of Electric Washers

"THE LAUNDRY QUEEN"

Here's the machine that takes the sting out of "Wash Day"—makes it a real pleasure. The LAUNDRY QUEEN handles the wash up to the point where it's ready to go on the line.

It cleans the clothes thoroughly and quickly. Ten minutes in the LAUNDRY QUEEN accomplish more than hours of wash board scrubbing and there is no tearing and wearing of delicate pieces. No rubbing—no friction—that's why.

The dolly is solid—rests on the clothes and there's no metal post through it to catch and tear things.

The wringer swings to any position. You can arrange your rinse and bluing tubs and basket so there will be no lifting to do until the wash is ready for the line. The cover, with the dolly, swings also. Shift it over the rinse tub and the dolly does that work for you, too.

The wringer rolls turn in either direction, or remain motionless, by simply moving a convenient handle.

The wringer and washer can be used at the same time if you wish.

There are dozens of other impressive Laundry Queen features, but you must see the machine itself to appreciate them. We will be glad to show you.

THE BEST ON EARTH

Says Mrs. Staples of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Taunton, Mass.—"I could not eat or sleep for six months, had fainting spells and could not walk without help for three months, caused by female trouble. My cousin, who was a doctor, told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped me greatly. Then during the Change of Life I used the same remedy. I am seventy years old now and am able to do my own housework and walk one mile to church every Sunday morning and evening. I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to my friends having the same troubles as I had. Your remedy is the best on earth. I cannot find words to express my gratitude to it."—Mrs. SUSAN C. STAPLES, 157 B School St., Taunton, Mass.

The reason that thousands of women from all parts of the country write such grateful letters is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives, once burdened with pain and illness.

It has relieved women from some of the worst forms of female ills, such as displacements, inflammation, and ulceration. Why don't you try it?

G. O. P. REFUSED TO SHARE "BIG 8" WITH THE WOMEN

K. C. CONVENTION WAS SHARP CONTRAST TO ACTION OF DEMOCRATS AT JOPLIN.

WOMEN CAUSE NEAR RIOT

One Place Wanted By G. O. P. Women Was Given to a Negro Politician —Election Was Controlled by Party Bosses.

Kansas City, Mo., May.—The lack of consideration upon the part of the party bosses for the women delegates attending the Republican State Convention here, as compared with the action of the Democratic State Convention at Joplin in accepting women delegates as "full partners" into the ranks of the Democratic Party, was one of the outstanding features of the Republican Convention.

The contrast has been sharply drawn because the Republicans only named two women as members of the "Big Eight" to Chicago, while the Democratic Convention elected four women as delegates-at-large to the Frisco Convention. The Republican women were characterized as "inexperienced" by members of their own party.

The concession on the part of the Republican bosses to name the two women as delegates came only after one of the most bitter fights in the history of the party. At Joplin the women were received as workers of the party and there was never any doubt about them being given an equal representation to the Democratic National Convention.

Bosses Were In Control.

However, the Republican bosses, headed by John Schmoll and Fred Essen of St. Louis, and Thomas R. Marks of Kansas City, were on the job early here and decided that, although the "Big Four" would be increased to a "Big Eight," all of the places should go to the men. National Committeeman Jacob L. Babler of St. Louis and W. L. Cole of Union, chairman of the Republican State Committee, also were on the ground and abetted in the scheme to head off the women.

That their plans prevented the women from getting equal representation was the opinion of close political observers.

The matter was all "cut and dried" behind closed doors and later the women were told of the program.

This caused the fireworks to break loose. A headline in a Republican newspaper best expresses what happened:

"Jefferson City Girl Leads G. O. P. Revolt."

This referred to the activity of Miss Matilda Dallmeyer, who was credited with stirring up strife among the women as a protest against "boss rule."

Another headline read:

"Women Cause Near Riot. Frantic Scenes Occur as Suffragettes Shriek and Clamor for Recognition in Tumultuous Assembly."

Called Women "Inexperienced."

The Republican bosses had succeeded beautifully in lining up Mrs. J. M. Hutchison of St. Louis on their side.

Mrs. Hutchison, who attempted to stem the tide in the caucus of Republican women, was quoted in the Globe-Democrat as declaring the insistence of the women for equal representation in the "Big Eight" would crowd out Babler and Cole, "who were too experienced politicians to be sidetracked for preference of inexperienced women."

The women finally got two places in the "Big Eight" in the election of Mrs. Alice Curtice Moyer Wing of Greenville, and Mrs. Veronna Swan of Joplin. One of the other two places they were asking for was given to a negro politician of St. Joseph.

REPUBLICAN STEAM ROLLER WORKED FINE AT KANSAS CITY

Kansas City, Mo., May.—The tactics which controlled the recent Republican State Convention in this city are best expressed by the headlines which appeared in the Globe-Democrat of St. Louis, a Republican newspaper:

"Republican Steam Roller Worked Fine and Ran Over All Opposition."

"Schmoll Had the Little Car Fit and Trim and Put Over Marks Men With Little Exertion."

"Women Get in Way, But Out Again."

"Delegates Who Thought They Could Impede Velocity of Roller Get Their Prince Alberts Splashed."

"St. Louis Lads Were on the Job."

"Gathering Was Side-Show for Credentials Committee, Which Was Well Manipulated by City Bosses."

It was this program which resulted in the selection of Messrs. Spencer, Cole, Dickey, Foristel and Dyer, along with two women and a negro politician, as members of the "Big Eight" to the Chicago Convention.

Even some of the Republican women were ready to admit that they were not "experienced" in dealing with such conditions when they had expected to receive at least courteous consideration.

LOOK TO FUTURE OF FOREST

Experts Point Out Folly of Practices Which Prevent the Reproduction of the Trees.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

That young growth in the woods, known popularly as "brush," is something to be rid of, is a prevalent but mistaken conception since a forest cannot maintain itself long without reproduction. For the sake of getting a scattering of green grass in the spring it is the short-sighted practice in hundreds of localities to fire the woods regularly. This results in killing thousands of small trees needed to continue the forest in the future, and also injures a large amount of marketable timber. Furthermore, such burning destroys a large amount of rich vegetable fertilizer.

Cattle and hogs in hardwood stands, and hogs in long-leaf pines, keep the forest from being restocked. Damage from insects can be reduced by cutting timber at the proper time of year and by utilizing lightning-killed trees without delay, since they harbor destructive pests. Cattle destroy the productive leaf mulch which keep the trees growing during long, dry spells. All large openings where light comes through into the forest should be filled with younger trees.

Telephone Defect Remedied.

Part of the construction of the telephone consists of a pocket containing a small quantity of granules of carbon through which the vibrations pass, and the difficulty with this has always been that its full efficiency has not been secured by reason of the fact that these particles become packed in and are therefore nonsetive. This condition is attributed to the moisture of the atmosphere. To remedy this defect some French inventors have made a microphone in which each individual grain of carbon is in a coil by itself so that no two grains can touch each other, being in contact only with the walls of the cell and diaphragm of the instrument. Experiments have shown that the new microphone is remarkably sensitive and gives a purer tone than any constructed on the old principle.—Indianapolis News.

Coaches to Go in the Trossachs.

An epoch of more than local interest was closed recently, when the four-in-hand and other coaches formerly in use on the famous Trossachs' route were brought under the auctioneer's hammer.

For more than 60 years the four-in-hand coach with its team of powerful horses and its post-boy in scarlet coat and white hat has been a familiar and picturesque feature of the season on the road between Callander and the Trossachs.

The picturesque four-in-hand coach is being displaced by the utilitarian motorcar, and a fleet of them is being put upon the road by the new company which has taken over the Trossachs hotel from the Blair family, in whose hands the famous hostelry has been for more than half a century.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

Origin of the Word Canada.

The origin of the word Canada is obscure, but it is now generally accepted that it is derived from an Indian word, "Kannatha," meaning a village or collection of huts, and it is supposed that Jacques Cartier, hearing this word used by the Indians with reference to their settlements, mistook its meaning, and applied it to the whole country. Quebec is said to be derived from the Indian word "Kebec," meaning a strait, and was given to the site of the present city of Quebec from the peculiar configuration of the St. Lawrence river at that point, for the river there grows narrow and from its deep waters rises the bold height on which the ancient city stands.

SITES OF HISTORIC INTEREST

Many Places Around Dutch City of Doorn Should Be of Interest to the Kaiser.

Doorn, the little Dutch town now the home of the former emperor of Germany, is surrounded by sites that may give the former kaiser cause for reflection, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society. At Rhenen he might find an historical companion in misery. Friedrich of Pfalz, the exiled king of Bohemia, took refuge there. Perhaps the most noteworthy aspect of Rhenen is its tower, which bears the name of Kunera, after the daughter of the ruler of the Orkney isles, who accompanied Ursula and her 11,000 virgins on a pilgrimage to Rome. Upon their return, according to the legend, now known to have been based on a misreading of a Latin text, the maidens were coming ashore to Cologne when Huns killed them all except Kunera. Later she leaped to her death from a castle parapet.
